

Tax Registration Basics

Prepare before using IRIS

The Federal Board of Revenue (FBR) uses IRIS for income-tax registration and returns. Requirements differ for individuals, associations, and companies.

- Gather CNIC, mobile number, email, address, and bank-account details.
- Keep business name, premises evidence, utility bill, and principal activity ready where applicable.
- Use only an official FBR domain and protect your login credentials.

Individual registration

Typical information

FBR's registration guidance asks individuals for identity, contact, residence, and financial information. The exact fields and attachments can change.

- Confirm your CNIC and mobile ownership before starting.
- Record the registration/NTN reference and download the acknowledgement.
- Update changes promptly rather than opening duplicate profiles.

Business records

Keep the tax file current

Businesses may need partnership, incorporation, premises, bank, and representative information in addition to individual details.

- Keep invoices, expense proofs, payroll, withholding records, and sales-tax documents organised.
- Separate personal and business transactions where possible.
- Calendar return, payment, withholding, and registration-update dates.

If something goes wrong

Verify before paying

Use FBR's official helpline and portal notices for account or filing issues. Never share an OTP or password with an intermediary.

- Screenshot error messages and note the date and IRIS transaction ID.
- Reconcile tax payments with the CPR or bank confirmation.
- Seek qualified tax advice for penalties, audits, notices, or cross-border income.
